Historic Environment

Volume 17 number 2, 2003

Contents

Introduction: Mountains of meaning
Marilyn Truscott, Juliet Ramsay, Alistair Grinbergs

‘Rocks are rocks, mountains are mountains’:
Aboriginal values of mountains
Jason Ardler

Southern Yukon Alpine ice patches
Diane Strand

The cultural significance of Australian alpine areas
Jane Lennon

Mountain motivations: the high Andes and other endeavours
Serge Domicelj

Fact or fantasy? Celebrating mountain heritage today
Marilyn C. Truscott

Alps mining: did we really get over it?
Robert J. Kaufman

Mountains of memory
Margaret Doring

Sharing the mountains: joint management of Australia’s alpine region with aboriginal people
Warwick Baird, Brian Egloff and Rachel Lenehan

Preserving historic trails
Margie Coffin Brown

Listening to the voices of the cultural landscape
Eve Logan

Book Reviews
Michael Pearson, Linda Young, Anita Smith, Brian Egloff, Jane Lennon, Susan Marsden, Katrina McDougall

Notes on Contributors

Cover design by Steven Fox. Members of the Garmabara, Doonooch and Brindabella Dreaming dance troupes perform at the Kaju Ceremony on the shores of Lake Jindabyne, NSW, November 2002. (Andrew Christie)