Contributors

DONALD ELLSMORE is a conservation architect with the Government Architects Branch.

CAROL TAY KE I WA Y is an historian in the Heritage Unit of the Ministry for Planning and Environment, Victoria, and previously worked as historian for the National Trust of Australia (Victoria).

MAX KELLY is associate professor of history at the Macquarie University. He specialises in economic and urban history and has closely studied Sydney's early development.

JUDITH MCKAY has an MA in Fine Arts and was art curator at the Australian War Memorial. Her particular interest is war memorials as sculpture. She lives in Queensland.

ANN MILLAR is an historical researcher and writer, based in Canberra. Her book I See No End to Travelling: journals of Australian explorers 1813-1876, is newly published.