Celebrating 75 Years of Women in Parliament

On Saturday, 25 August we launched our latest exhibition Breaking Through: 75 Years of Women in Parliament.

To celebrate the 75th anniversary of the first women elected to Australian Federal Parliament, the Breaking Through exhibition at MoAD explores the journeys of 11 trailblazers, each the first to hold particular parliamentary positions.

The stories told in the exhibition are stories of resilience, perseverance and ground-breaking achievements. They recognise the significant contributions these women made in Australia’s democracy.

Breaking Through is a multi-faceted experience that takes visitors on a journey through the entire museum, allowing them to walk in the footsteps of the first women Parliamentarians.

Breaking Through: 75 Years of Women in Parliament is now open at MoAD.

Bestselling author, Kathy Lette, was our special guest speaker at the launch of Breaking Through. During her speech she highlighted the struggle faced by women in parliament and specifically the media's treatment of female politicians.

She was joined at the launch by several of the trailblazing women profiled in Breaking Through.

From Girls to Men: Social Attitudes to Gender Equality in Australia

New research, from the 50/50 by 2030 Foundation, on the attitudes and beliefs about women and girls in Australia was launched at Old Parliament House earlier this week.

The report from the Foundation, which was established by the Institute for Governance and Policy Analysis at the University of Canberra, shows that gender equality progress in Australia is in trouble.

When asked to identify areas of society where sexism is most widespread, both men (53 per cent) and women (63 per cent) were in agreement that Australian politics was one of the worst perpetrators of sexism.
